

will evaluate items brought in Manning, who has performed on radio, stage and in theater. Children may perform a monologue, poem or speak of

Faith SUNDAY

SUNDAY, September

www.WoonsocketCall.com

Submitted photo

The crowd enjoys live music at last year's SonSplash at World War II Veterans Memorial State Park in Woonsocket.

Calling all Christians

The annual, free SonSplash festival in Woonsocket is set for next Saturday

WOONSOCKET — The Third Annual SonSplash Christian Arts and Music Festival that rolls into World War II Memorial State Park this coming Saturday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

SonSplash is a different kind of festival for the city. First of all, everything is completely free of charge — music all day long, hot dogs and drinks, popcorn and cotton candy, face painting, a tremendous array of activities for children, an inflatable bouncer and drawings for prizes.

Son Splash

LORI KAST of Lincoln holds up a hand mirror for 5-year-old TYLER BANNAN of Woonsocket so he can check out the green cross she just painted on his face during the Son Splash annual Christian Arts and Music Festival last Saturday.

VALLEY BREEZE PHOTOS BY DEBRA BOUCHER
Folks sat and listened to music last Saturday at the Son Splash Christian Arts and Music Festival. The event was held at River Island Park.

Having a blast in a bouncy house is MADISON CASSIDY, 10, of Woonsocket. Cassidy was attending the Son Splash Christian Arts & Music Festival with her grandmother Jackie Cassidy, also of Woonsocket. The festival also featured live music, kid activities, face painting, cotton candy, popcorn and hotdogs, all for free. Despite the threat of rain a good sized crowd was in attendance.

SUNDAY

THE CALL

The Blackstone Valley's Neighborhood Newspaper

Sunday, September 25, 2011

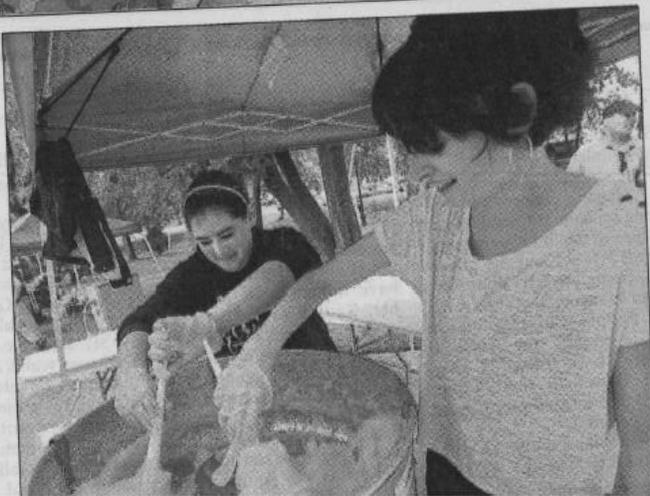

onsocketcall.com

dontoro@comcast.net (dontoro@comcast.net) is signed in

A splash of sun on a dreary day

Above, Brittany Quade, 10, of Cumberland, enjoys some cotton candy after singing a few songs onstage during Harvest Community Church's Sun Splash Festival at River Island Park in Woonsocket Saturday. The all-day event featured live music, food and fun for all age groups and was co-sponsored by the Woonsocket...

Son Splash

TATUM BISCH, 15, left, of Cumberland, and HALEY BERTHIAUME, 15, right, of Woonsocket, make cotton candy at the Christian arts and music festival Son Splash. The festival was held at River Island Park last Saturday.

EVELYN ALOBWEDE, 15, left, JANESSA BERRIOS, 11, center, and ALEXA ALOBWEDE, 17, right, all from Woonsocket, hang out together at the Christian arts and music festival Son Splash.

BREEZE PHOTOS BY BILL MURPHY

KEW KASIRIPHOU, above, of Woonsocket, claps along with the music of the band at the Son Splash festival. BEN WASHINGTON, left, of Woonsocket, sings with the band Gospel Inspirations.

SAMUEL NAVARRO, 6, of Woonsocket, takes a turn on the inflatable slide at the festival. The event, sponsored by Harvest Community Church, featured live bands, children's activities, free food and more.

The 9th annual Christian Arts and Music Festival, Son Splash, co-sponsored by the Woonsocket Prevention Coalition, took place at River Island Park, last Saturday in Woonsocket. The event featured music, food and fun. The band, GOSPEL INSPIRATIONS, above, performs during the festival.

Puppeteer RACHEL LAFLIN, 15, from Massachusetts, holds the puppet, Joe Cool, as she waits for the show to begin.

VALLEY BREEZE PHOTOS BY DAVID WUERTH